

'Annual' Sales Campaign Commences

Sales girls have been placed in every major building on the campus this week as the Annual begins its first sales campaign.

This will give students a first chance to place their orders for Old McGill '57.

The yearbook is already well under way with its staff of a hundred and eight people busily accumulating the vast quantity of material which goes into its production. The trend of the annual this year will be to give full coverage to all activities on campus, with larger pictures and greater concentration on campus life. NP Graduate pictures are presently being taken at Geraldine Carpenter Studio on Bishop Street and plans call for completion of these week.

As the Annual is the only existing pictorial record of McGill's graduates and provides a synopsis of a great year in review, the staff is sure that every student will wish to possess one.

The sales girls will be easily recognized by their "Make a Date" buttons, one of which is shown in cut.

The Annual's price has not been raised this year, and it is still available to the student body for $5.00 per copy, payable by cheque

Dr. Huxley Completes Lectures Series On Possibility Of Man

by Marv Goldenberg

"Man's destiny lies in greater fulfilment and in higher achievement", said Dr. Julian Huxley, last night in the concluding lecture of the Edward Beatty Memorial Series.

Dr. Huxley said that man's culture can evolve further, but the only way that this can be done is by a unification of all beliefs to converge on a single pattern of belief which will embody every aspect: religion, politics, economics, and all sciences. Many obstacles are in the way. There are many incompatible beliefs in every field, but Dr. Huxley holds the belief that these divergences can be reconciled and all conflicts can be resolved. Fate is truth and truth will prevail, but it needs all our efforts to do so.

CULTURAL EVOLUTION

Dr. Huxley compared cultural evolution to biological evolution. He said that culture has also become self-reproducing but it has a novel element in that it is cumulatively self-reproducing. There are new methods in variation: imagination, spiritual intuitions etc, which exist instead of genetic variation. Cultural or social selection exists instead of natural selection. There is also an advance of the upper level of organization. The big difference between the two evolutions lies in that the biological one lead to greater diversity, but because of the crossing of cultures, the latter form tends to convergence rather than divergence.

It was pointed out by Dr. Huxley that we are now in the midst of a psycho-biological revolution when we are finding the important relationships between mind and body. Many of the most important steps in this field were taken right here in Montreal by professor Penfield and professor Hebb.

"We should be appalled at the low standards of education persisting the world over", said Dr. Huxley. He went on to state that this was no way to realize man's full potentialities, and that we are not even realizing man's full potentialities as far as health is concerned, but the World Health Organization has made a step in that direction.

McGILL CELEBRATES UKRAINIAN WEEK

The appearance of an exhibit of Ukrainian handicrafts yesterday in Eaton's University Street Window Showcase marked the opening of the fourth annual "Ukrainian Week" at McGill. This event is sponsored by the Ukrainian Students' Club on the campus.

Talks and Concerts

The programme of the past few years have featured talks on East European problems by such authorities on the subject as Professor Manning of Columbia University and Dr. Kirconnell, President of Acadia University. They have also included concerts of classical music by renowned Ukrainian artists like Donna Grescoe, violinist, and Boris Maximovich, pianist.

This year the emphasis is on a presentation of Ukrainian folk culture — the spirited dances of the steppes and mountains; the deeply moving songs of the peasants and the cossacks; the intricate colorful needlecraft and wood engraving of the village artists. These have been nurtured and developed by devoted and talented masters in each area and have matured into a kind of classical folk-culture. In this form they have been preserved by Ukrainians throughout the world.

US Election Campaign Draws To Close

By Robert Barkdoll

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5. (UP) — Americans will decide tomorrow whether they still like Ike better than Adlai.

They will turn out about 60 million strong to choose between Dwight D. Eisenhower and Adlai E. Stevenson as the man best equipped to lead the nation as President for the next four years. All signs, as read by pollsters and pundits, pointed to another Republican victory. The odds strongly favoured Mr. Eisenhower to defeat again the former Democratic Governor of Illinois, although perhaps by a smaller margin, than in 1952.

In the battle for Congress, however, it was a different story. Most observers gave the Democrats a better than even chance to retain control.

The campaign, which began on such domestic issues as farm policy, integration and living costs, was devoted almost exclusively to foreign policy in its closing phases. Republicans contended the flaming anti-Communist revolt in Hungary and the Middle East fighting made it all the more important to continue Mr. Eisenhower, a former five-star general, in the White House. Stevenson and Kefauver hammered until the 11th hour on the charge that administration "fumbling" and "negligence" helped precipitate the crisis.

LAST MINUTE DISPATCHES

In a special dispatch for the United Press summing up the issues as he sees them, Nixon said the nation must realize it is selecting a commander-in-chief as well as a president. In a companion dispatch, Kefauver said the Middle East fighting could have been averted "had the Eisenhower-Nixon administration employed the good offices of the nation imaginatively in seeking a peaceful solution."

In 1952 Mr. Eisenhower won by taking 39 states with 442 electoral votes. Stevenson captured the other nine, all in the south, with 89 electoral votes. It takes 266 electoral votes to win.

Also at stake are 35 of the 96 Senate seats and 432 of the 435 House seats. Maine elected two Republican and one Democratic Representative Sept. 10. Democrats were confident they could hold or even increase the 49-47 Senate majority they held in the last Congress. The House race, however, was regarded as a toss-up. The present line-up is 230 Democrats, 210 Republicans, and four vacancies.

Lower Priced Editions Featured In Book Show

The Second Annual Book Show sponsored by the McGill University Book Store got under way yesterday for a five day run in the Walter M. Stewart Room of the Union. The Show's purpose is to demonstrate what is available to students in the cheaper editions of hard covered books.

This year's Show features the 'Modern Library' series including regular editions, the 'Giants', and special low priced paper-backs for students. Prices range from one to three dollars, depending on the edition. Over three hundred different books are available through the Show.

Last year Penguin Books were on sale and 1975 copies were bought by students during a five day period. This was equal to half the total sales at the Canadian National Exhibition this year, where a two week sale was carried out.

The Show is open to anyone who wishes to drop in and browse around.

Hand of Friendship To Hungarian Students

OTTAWA, NOV. 5 — (BUP) — The National Federation of Canadian University Students today extended the "hand of friendship ... to their Hungarian fellows in their darkest hour."

"Canadian students... assure them that they are ever ready to enter into free and friendly relations on the basis of respect for each other's national independence and sovereignty," the NFCUS said in a prepared statement. It was signed by National President Gabriel Gagnon and Walter Parnopolsky, International affairs vice-president.

Gagnon noted that relations between Canadian and Hungarian students in recent years had been confined to "infrequent and sometimes unfriendly meetings at conferences of the Communist-dominated international union of students."

"Canadian students have never ceased to hope," Gagnon said, "that conditions would alter and that more normal and friendly relations would be established."

S.S. Meeting Friday

President Morrie Shohet has announced that there will be a meeting of the Students' Society at 1 pm on Friday, November 9 in the Union Ballroom.

Islamic Society

The Islamic Society of Montreal yesterday expressed its intense and deep distress at the brutal and unwarranted aggression that Britain, France and Israel have launched against Egypt.

The Islamic Society which represents all the Muslims in Montreal would also like to impress upon the Western Governments that this aggression will have grave repercussions in all Muslim countries.

Secret Council

Not all Student's Councils meet behind closed doors. At the U of M regular Council meetings are held in a large auditorium with accommodation for over 200 people.

Nor are the two hundred required to sit in agonized silence and merely listen to the "words of wisdom" emanating from their elected representatives. The audience may speak, introduce motions, make amendments and do everything a council member can do except vote.

As a result the students at the U of M are far more aware of the workings of their student government and far readier to turn out when the time comes for action. When a Students' Society meeting is called at Dear Old McGill the usual question asked is "What's It All About?"

Student Newspaper across Canada are filled with details of Russian Exchanges, NFCS schemes, and words of encouragement for students fighting for their independence behind the iron curtain. All these ideas have been discussed by various members of the McGill Council yet no details have ever been announced.

Why bellow about student apathy when every effort is made to keep the student in the dark about matters which concern him directly. The only logical solution is that every meeting of the SEC be opened to all students with a portion of the time spent on each item open to discussion from the floor. But then the Secret Council won't be so very secret; the may even find out what's going on.

"Collegians Think Ike Will Win"...

Minneapolis — (ACP) — By a margin of almost three to one, college students feel the Republicans will take this year's presidential election. Were the students expressing their party preference, however, the Democrats would receive top billing, since the ACP Poll of October 22 showed that 40 per cent of the college students considered themselves Democrats, 33 per cent Republicans, and 27 per cent Independents or other.

Associated Collegiate Press gathered collegiate opinion on this preference by sampling from a representative national cross-section of college students. The following question was asked:

WHO DO YOU THINK WILL WIN THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION THIS FALL, REPUBLICANS OR DEMOCRATS?

The results:

|              | Men | Women | Total |
|--------------|-----|-------|-------|
| Republicans: | 68% | 58%   | 65%   |
| Democrats:   | 21% | 28%   | 23%   |
| Undecided:   | 11% | 14%   | 12%   |

A large number of students considering themselves either Democrats or Independents feel the Republicans will win on November 6. For instance, a senior attending Juniata College (Huntingdon, Pa.) considers himself an Independent but feels the GOP will win the election, and then adds: "I don't favor this result personally." On the other hand, few of the students classifying themselves as Republicans feel the Democrats will win.

The vast majority of students (regardless of their party preference) feel the GOP will win because of Eisenhower's personality and popularity.

From The Ivory Tower

The Last Ten Days

It is doubtful if anything has happened since World War II to match in importance the momentous events of the last ten days. The two powers around whom all world affairs have spun since 1945 suddenly were confronted with successful challenges to their authority. A desert ember smouldering for eight years burst into violent flame. The British Commonwealth of Nations, long unsteady, began tottering perilously, as did also Nato and the United Nations itself. Most poignant of all, the cry of hope in the throats of Eastern European peoples is even now becoming a scream of anguish.

Future Generations

We cannot at present determine how future generations will interpret these events — historical analysis, which is based on causes and effects, will in these matters have to await the effects. Nevertheless, two immediate consequences stand out in bold relief against the confused horizon.

The first is that the west's closely nurtured campaign to emphasise morality and principle in international affairs has been abruptly terminated. Despite scattered instances like Guatemala, Cyprus and Algeria, the western democracies have, on the whole, attempted to use world opinion as their main defense against the spread of militant communism. And despite her copious use of the Security Council veto, the Soviet Union has generally respected and, indeed, tried very hard to manipulate this world opinion too. The very fear of alienating large masses of humanity in Asia and Africa undoubtedly was a factor in her initial almost moderate reaction in Poland and Hungary. Now, after the recent events in the Middle East and the United Nations, this fear has been dispelled — the west's moral position has been so greatly damaged that nothing which the Soviet Union might conceivably do in Europe will alienate the Afro-Asian nations. (Note their refusal to condemn the Russians in the UN on Sunday night).

Thus, a situation which could have dealt a death blow to communism in all the satellite countries has been replaced by another which is allowing the USSR an unprecedented freedom of action. With the west's strongest weapon neutralized, the Soviets are now doing what they could not have done had the Middle East crisis not intervened. Whether this means a complete return to the iron fist of the Stalin era remains to be seen.

The second point in the aftermath of these tumultuous days is that anti-western, indeed anti-Caucasian feeling today is probably at its highest pitch in Asia and North Africa. The idea prevalent among many Afro-Asians that western moral principles apply to 'white' and not to 'coloured' people has certainly received a boost from this crisis. The simultaneous cries for justice in Eastern Europe and, seemingly, for blood in Egypt by the British and French Governments, as well as the disparity in the American reaction to the two situations has had a marked effect on these people. ## McGill to Sponsor WUS Seminar At Shawbridge Over Weekend

McGill will be host at a seminar for cosmopolitan students to be sponsored by the World University Service of Canada this weekend. The venue will be the McGill Outing Club Headquarters at Shawbridge in the Laurentians.

"The Role of a University Student in Politics", a subject which should be of special interest to students in the province of Quebec, will be the topic under discussion. Various Universities from Toronto to Dalhousie have been invited to send two representatives each, one Canadian, one non-Canadian, to the seminar.

Professor Catlin of the Political Science Department will open the seminar on Friday and the discussion leaders will be Professor Vallée of the Classics Department, Wilfred Hastings Secretary-Treasurer of the Student Society, and Jane Banfield executive secretary of WUSC.

Two persons from this campus will be chosen to represent McGill, and those interested in attending the seminar should fill out the form available in the Union Tuck Shop, and return it before 3:00 pm Wednesday. All expenses will be paid by WUSC.

Camera Club Sponsors Lecture By Canadian Photography Editor

Les Buckland, editor of Canadian Photographer, will lecture on colour photography tonight at 7:30 in the P.S.C.A. The lecture accompanied by a demonstration, is sponsored by the McGill Camera Club and is open to all photo enthusiasts whether members of the club or not.

Les Buckland is internationally known in photographic circles both as editor and colour photographer. The lecture will consist of Mr. Buckland taking a few photos early in the evening, and actually developing and projecting them before the lecture is over. The lecture has been very successful in Toronto, and other Canadian cities.

Display of Cameras

The McGill Camera Club will also present on Wednesday and Thursday of this week a display of cameras and other equipment in the Union Lounge between 7:30 and 10:30. Fourteen Canadian distributors and importers will display their equipment during these hours. This is the second annual event of this type. Visitors to the show should get an excellent view of all types of cameras available on the Canadian market, and also some 1957 models not yet on the market. The public is cordially invited to both of these functions free of charge.

Fraternities To Sponcer "Funday" Featuring Calypsos & Rock N' Roll

November 8 has been selected as "Funday" by the Interfraternity Council and the Panhellenic Council who are jointly sponsoring a round of parties to raise money for the Students' Fund for McGill. Three fraternity houses, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Phi Kappa Pi, and Zeta Psi, will open their doors to the campus between the hours of 5 and 9:30 Thursday evening in an effort to help the Students' Fund, which in turn is holding its drive to aid the McGill Fund.

Each house will feature a different type of musical group at its party. At the Deke House there will be the Rock and Roll music of Mike Dodman, better known as a western singer and square dance caller with his "Buckskin Boys". Dodman has just organized a new group, the "Holl Rollers", which features 'Campbell' on alto sax, 'Jumping' Joe Puddicombe on drums, and 'Wild' Bruce McLaughlin with a new instrument to Rock and Roll, the 'rock 'n' roll banjo'.

The Phi Kapp House will feature calypso singing by the perennial favourite of Montrealers, 'The Lord Caressar', who has appeared on several occasions at campus activities and is always in demand by the students for his spontaneous calypso renditions.

To top off the musical end of "Funday", the Zeta House will be the scene of dancing to the Dixieland music by Ed Burger and his boys.

Yet another feature of the fund raising festivities will be a "box lunch auction", emceed by Don MacSweeney, Wilson Southam, and Jim Lotz. On the block will no doubt be some very good "lunches" for these lucky people who bid highest, however it is felt that it is only fair to let you know that with each lunch goes a girl, from one of the Women's Fraternities in the Panhellenic Council, to either help you eat the lunch or serve it for you.

As a final highlight chances will be available on two tickets to this year's Grey Cup game in Toronto, the winners of the tickets to be announced at the dance in the gym on Saturday night.

Queen's Dance

The football dance after the Queen's Game this Saturday will take the form of a Hawaiian Carnival. Featuring the music of Eddie Alexander, the dance gets under way at 8 pm.

The dance is being sponsored by the Red and White Committee and the chairman is Cameron Bennett. The committee wishes to emphasize that although the event is billed as Hawaiian — this refers to decorations and motif only. Dress for the affair will be the usual informal clothing.

Admission is $1.50 per person.

THE LAST...

firmation of this one need only note the hurt, agitated and obviously sincere speeches of Afro-Asian delegates at the United Nations. While almost all recognize that some provocation can be claimed for the Israeli attack on Egypt, none see any moral justification whatever for the Anglo-French action. The example set by these two western powers in achieving their aims by their own devices regardless of world opinion has not been lost on them. This, at a time when the Afro-Asian nations are in the formative years during which they choose their friends, is a most unfortunate example.

Act Clarified

Dear Sir:

In reply to Mr. Ladouceur's article, "Ottawa Stole Provincial Rights", I think that two pertinent points should be examined in order to clarify the situation.

The first of these is the fundamental meaning of the British North America Act. The Fathers of Confederation forged a constitution with two ends in view: they wished to set up a code of law which would adequately fulfill the needs of the Canadian people and which would also give future leaders a guide, a strong support to lean on to properly govern the Canadian people. But political, economic, and social conditions in general have evolved a great deal in Canada since the Fathers met 80 years ago. Among many other things, frontiers have been moved, new provinces have joined the Federation, transportation has evolved and improved, and industry has boomed and replaced agriculture to a large degree. With such evolution, it is quite inevitable that certain aspects of the B.N.A. Act be reconsidered in the light of present conditions in Canada. And this fact must always be born in mind when one talks of interpreting the letter of the B.N.A. Act.

The second matter that I would like to examine is the interpretation of the famous "section 93" of the Act regarding education. Surely it means that the provinces shall be given full jurisdiction in so far as subject matter and teaching methods are concerned, and must give money to provide for such. And quite right. This permits each province to protect certain aspects of its constituent people, such as language and cultural heritage. And these peculiarities also apply to provinces other than Quebec. But what possible connection can section 93 of the B.N.A. Act have with a gift with no strings attached from the Federal Government to universities? As defined above, the rights of the provinces in the field of education are being fully respected. The Federal Government is not exchanging money for a word in the programming of the universities. The Federal Government is not in the least interfering with the provincial autonomy which Mr. Duplessis argues he is fighting for. All the Federal Government is doing is to give money to needy universities to supplement the requisite provincial grants and thus help further the Canadian universities which everyone concerned agree must expand.

Godless

Sir:

I always presumed that the Daily was created to inform and entertain the students of McGill. Since at least ninety percent of the McGill Students believe in God, the Daily in its October 28th. edition neither informed nor entertained them. On the contrary, it insulted them and their respective religions. I am referring of course to the so called letters from Lord Westerfield to his son which contained the lowest ideas on life and especially of God and religion in general. Any intelligent editor would not have thought of putting such trash in print, let alone claim to be proud of it.

E.M.

Pro Mac

Dear Sir:

Miss Rosman's article, Attack on Mac, was studied until four criticisms were recognized.

1. The B. Ed. course is narrow, causing a loss of individuality.

As B. Ed's first graduating class, you must understand our concern! If our critic had met any of us, she might have altered part of her opinion. The only other source of information about our course, the McGill Handbook, admits the "narrow course" selects courses from both Arts and Science Faculties. Should we mention our extra courses and months of teaching? Salary benefits, of course, are too numerous to mention.

2. The staff does not permit any innovations in teaching methods. In reality, special courses are designed to stimulate and evaluate different opinions. Discussion groups, lead by professors and students, and to the basic methods offered for each of twelve school subjects. These classes, however, are not forced to accept every "innovation" made by McGill's leftovers (or Twelfth graders).

3. Students have a "lack of intellectual curiosity (misspelled) and vivaciousness". Assuming Rosey chose the correct words, let's add the term "a sense of humour". It then would state that all teachers-to-be have none of the essential requirements of a teacher. Are you so lacking in human understanding, Miss Bosman, of your old class-mates? Surely others cannot label student teachers as "school marm's" before they graduate in June. McGill does have some cause to worry; no girls chew gum or wear coloured hockey socks to class.

4. Nineteen year-old teachers will never decrease the shortage of teachers.

We are sorry to see that our

Scarlet Key

Dear Sir:

Once again the Scarlet Key Society has launched its annual membership campaign. As the years go by and as one becomes more and more of an upper-classman, it is not until the Ginko's leaves are shed, the Redmen have barely lost another game, and the familiar figure of the fraternity pledge goes hustling, slew-foot through the library, in search of 25 friends to sign "big brother's" nomination sheet — not until then does one really begin to feel that yet another year of college life is at last under way.

There are however certain matters to which the conscientious undergraduate must feel himself obliged to give some attention; howsoever cursory; and his nomination to the Scarlet Key is one of these matters. He looks over the ad in the Daily and finds that because he is in a certain year in a certain faculty, ergo he qualifies for consideration. Through the good auspices of 25 of his fellow-students who previously to being coercively assured that "...he's a great guy!..." were probably as unaware of his existence as he was of theirs, he is up for nomination.

Nomination we see presents no problem. On the other hand, why any undergraduate should vote for a particular nominee, even if the latter be Joseph College himself, or why he should even vote at all is not nearly so elementary. What does the average student know of the "Key", its aims, functions, and its raison d'être. He has no doubt seen its members under a wide variety of circumstances: innocuously pretty at home football games, pompously purposeful at academic ceremonies, busily useless at Moyse Hall happenings, and generally speaking, arrayed in all their glory at most any event where admission by uniform is 100% less expensive than admission by ticket.

A reference to the McGill Handbook and the student learns that the Key is an "honour society" whose honor it would seem consists in the privilege of welcoming visiting teams, meeting foreign students, ushering at football games, and maintaining order. The Society thus claims to be the official hosts of the Student Body at the University. In McGill's case however, the Key in action appears more like the "butler" than the "host".

Surely there can be (and perhaps is) more to this Society than a 26 year history and what one is led to believe from what one sees in practise and reads in principle. I suggest that it is high time for a Commission royal on the nature and necessity of the Scarlet Key Society.

Gratuitously,

critic believed this so strongly that she sacrificed her year at Mac. What do other McGill students think of teacher shortage and its solution?

This letter's purpose was to correct the spiteful remarks directed against a part of our University. The Institute of Education is our class' source of many fond memories. We'd rather share them with those interested. Why not ask us about Mac?

Fourth Year.

TERMS FOR PEACE

In the October 30th issue of the "McGill Daily" an article entitled "Revolt against State of Siege" was published anonymously under the column "From the Ivory Tower", in order perhaps to give it an appearance of objectivity. The essence of this article was to justify Israel's act of aggression against Egypt.

I call it an act of aggression because it violates the terms of the Armistice Agreement signed on February 24, 1949, between Israel and Egypt. However the careful reader would easily detect that it represents a biased, distorted, and incorrect view of the situation. The course of events has shown that the reasons behind Israel's aggressive invasion of Egypt were not those officially proclaimed by Israel, since the invaders found neither commandos nor bases in the Sinai desert.

The British ultimatum to Egypt and the British-French veto of the U.S. resolution at the Security Council, provided the clue to the whole mystery. Instead of ordering the Israeli aggressors to withdraw to their borders, the British intend to use this issue as a pretext to reoccupy the Suez Canal Zone. It does not take great intelligence to conclude that Israel was used as a pawn by Britain and France. Israel was instigated to engage the Egyptians in the Sinai Desert so that Britain and France will not have great trouble in landing in the Canal Zone. The time was also carefully chosen — Russia is a bit busy in Eastern Europe and the United States is absorbed in an election campaign.

My own predictions, however, is that France and Britain and Israel will soon be frustrated by Arab solidarity and by the great weight of condemnation from the international community. If this should lead to a war in the Middle East, Israel will be worse off than from where it started.

Hillel To Have Physician Lead Group Discussion This Afternoon

Dr. Alton Goldbloom, F.R.C.P. (C), eminent physician and Professor Emeritus of Pediatrics at McGill University, will be the guest of honor in the next "Meet-the-Faculty" series on Tuesday, Nov. 6th, at 1 p.m. at Hillel House, 3460 Stanley Street. Continuing the group discussions on "Dilemmas in our Society", Dr. Goldbloom will discuss the question of "The Doctor — Patient Ethical Relationship".

A native of Montreal and a McGill Graduate, Dr. Goldbloom has had a long and distinguished career, both as practicing physician and as teacher. In 1953 he relinquished his positions as Professor of Pediatrics at McGill University and Physician-in-Chief at the Children's Memorial Hospital. He serves now as Consulting Physician on the advisory staff of many hospitals both in this country and in the United States. His volume "Care of the Child" is only one among his many contributions to medical literature. The Doctor has lectured at various European Universities and, in March 1954, was visiting Professor at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem.

Letters To The Editor

TERMS FOR PEACE

In the October 30th issue of the "McGill Daily" an article entitled "Revolt against State of Siege" was published anonymously under the column "From the Ivory Tower", in order perhaps to give it an appearance of objectivity. The essence of this article was to justify Israel's act of aggression against Egypt.

I call it an act of aggression because it violates the terms of the Armistices Agreement signed on February 24, 1949, between Israel and Egypt. However the careful reader would easily detect that it represents a biased, distorted, and incorrect view of the situation. The course of events has shown that the reasons behind Israel's aggressive invasion of Egypt were not those officially proclaimed by Israel, since the invaders found neither commandos nor bases in the Sinai desert.

The British ultimatum to Egypt and the British-French veto of the U.S. resolution at the Security Council, provided the clue to the whole mystery. Instead of ordering the Israeli aggressors to withdraw to their borders, the British intend to use this issue as a pretext to reoccupy the Suez Canal Zone. It does not take great intelligence to conclude that Israel was used as a pawn by Britain and France. Israel was instigated to engage the Egyptians in the Sinai Desert so that Britain and France will not have great trouble in landing in the Canal Zone. The time was also carefully chosen — Russia is a bit busy in Eastern Europe and the United States is absorbed in an election campaign.

'Med' Team Win Intramural Semi's Touch Football Final Today At 1

by EARL SANDY

Down 11-0 at one point early in the first half to the Engineering Hardrocks, Med 2a decided to forget about cranial nerves and androgens, and concentrate on football. Then, led by Dick 'the Saskatchewan Sorcerer' Baltzan, the doctors turned on the steam and came back to whip the Plumbers 15-11.

Sura and Dionne scored the Hardrock touchdowns with Sura getting a single point, and then the Meds went to work. Tom Craig, the Med. quarterback from Old Notre Dame, faded back and threw a long (awfully long) pass to John 'Flash' Mosher offensive end and defensive centre. Mosher gathered in the ball and ran to the Engineer 10 where he later-alled to Baltzan who scampered over for his first of three majors. The play covered all of 83 yards. Craig missed the convert.

That made it 11-5 for the Hardrocks and that's the way the first half ended. In the second half Craig threw a pair of TD passes to his halfback, Baltzan. The first went 81 yards and the second a mere 15. The two converts were again missed, and the Medsman walked off the field with a 15-11 win and a place in the finals.

Med. 3a won the right to be the other finalist as they edged out Commerce 11-10 at the Stadium. This makes it an all Med. final and the game will be played at the Stadium today at 1 p.m.

The Meds. 3a squad held an 11-5 halftime lead on touchdowns by Southerland and Smith while Bauregman picked up a single point. The doctors were held scoreless in the second half while a desperate Commerce rally netted a touchdown to close the gap to 11-10. But the convert failed and the Medsman were in the finals. Wasserman and Wright got the two Commerce touchdowns. Last year Westies from Arts and Science won the touch football title.

MWSAA

The semi-annual meeting of the MWSAA will take place in the Women's Union in R.V.C. on Thursday, November 8, at 4 p.m. Awards will be given out.

Wallingford Takes Harrier Honours In Cross Country Trek At CMR

Ron Wallingford, a first year Med student, is rapidly becoming known as the top distance runner at McGill. Last Saturday, at St. Johns Quebec, Wallingford ran off with top honours at the Cross Country Race at College Militaire Royal.

The race, over a three and a half mile course, was run in 17 minutes and 51 seconds. Wallingford took an early lead over the other 25 runners and was never headed. In the Intercollegiate track meet, Ron won the 880 and three mile race and finished a very close second in the mile.

Kerry Gill, a member of the McGill track team in 1955, crossed the finish line in second place. It took him 18 minutes and 40 seconds to tour the course. Jim Martin of Les Freres Amis was third.

Wally Graham, came in seventh running the distance in 19:35 minutes, while Peter Reid, a fourth year Commerce student was 11th with a time of 20 minutes 10 seconds. In the Intercollegiate track meet Reid ran first in the 440 and second in the 880.

This Saturday the Intercollegiate Harrier championships will be held at Toronto. Wallingford, Graham and Reid will be there wearing the McGill colours along with Paul Delany and Guy Messereau. Messereau won the Intramural Harrier meet at McGill last week.

Volleyball Schedule For Coeds

There was a wonderful turnout at the opening night of the Women's Intramural Volleyball last Wednesday night. This first meeting was only a practice, but the first scheduled games take place tomorrow evening.

Eight teams have been chosen, and they are Arts A and B, Physio A and B, Phys. Ed 1 and 2, Commerce and Science.

Please check the R.V.C. notice board to find out what team you are on, and the schedule of games.

The schedule tomorrow at 7:30 pm is Science vs. Physio A on court 1 and Commerce vs. Physio B on court 2. At 8:15 pm Science plays Physio B and Commerce plays Physio A.

Intercollegiate practices begin tomorrow after the intramural games. The lucky eleven members of the Intercollegiate team are going to Queen's this year for the meet.

Remember, girls of all faculties, please check the R.V.C. notice board. For any further questions phone Diane Matheson at WA. 8379 after 6 pm.

Women's Squash Starts Tonight

The Women's Squash group will meet for the first workout of the season this evening. Beginners and experienced players are welcome to attend a meeting at 7:30 pm at the gym to discuss plans for future sessions, and to meet Miss A. Doe who will coach the group this year.

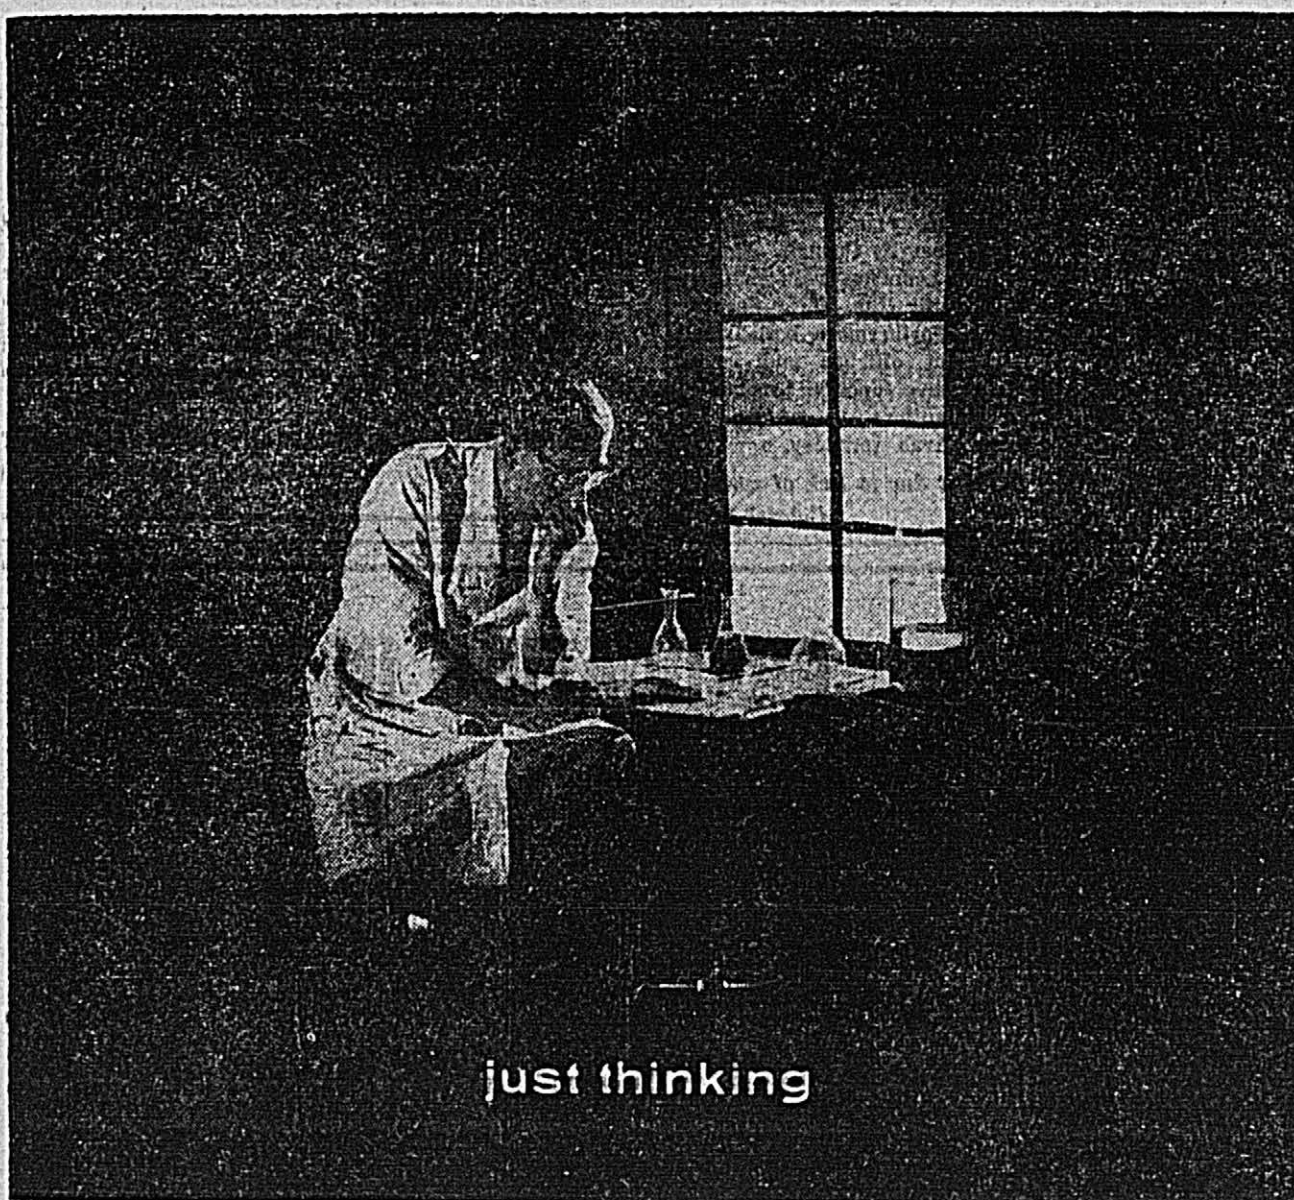

Squash evenings have been planned to include group and individual instruction, as well as recreational play and a ladder tournament. From the latter a team will be chosen to compete with outside clubs.

All who are interested in playing this year should sign the list at R.V.C. or at the gym, and turn out tonight.

RUGGER

The McGill Rugger team will play the Barbarians tonight at the Stadium. Kick off time is 7:45.

Practice sessions will be held on the Upper Field tomorrow and Thursday at 5 p.m.

just thinking

Chemical progress is autoclaves, test tubes, distillation towers . . . hydrocarbons, heterocyclic compounds . . . processes, polymerizations, products.

But mostly, chemical progress is thinking . . . men thinking. Little men, big men, medium size men . . . in lab coats, business suits, overalls . . . all of them, always, thinking.

Thinking up new products . . . new ways to make chemicals and new ways to use them. Thinking up more comfort, more convenience, better health, for everyone.

Always, the old things have to be improved, and the new things have to be proved. It takes more thinking. The thinking never stops. And so chemical progress never stops. It's that way at Koppers.

You can be one of these men, thinking. You can create some of the chemical progress that's made at Koppers. The products are many . . . the opportunities myriad. Consider a career with Koppers; send the coupon today.

TORONTO WEEKEND

It was, to say the least, quite a weekend! It is only on rare occasion that a visit to a place as dead as Toronto, where they roll the sidewalks up at incredibly early hours, could possibly be regarded as exciting. This year's "Toronto weekend" was one such occasion.

To begin with there was the train ride down. As it happened, the Canadian Pacific Railway Company made the terrible miscalculation of allotting a mere two railway cars for McGill use solely, and allowing several other cars to be populated by both McGill students, and the public in general. The net result was that for the students to get together by themselves, five carloads congregated in two or three cars, rendering these impassable and somewhat cramped.

The intimacy afforded by these close quarters, however, soon let itself be recognized in the form of a greater display of school spirit (and spirits) than these eyes have observed in many a day. By the look of the floor about half-way to Toronto, one would think the C.P.R. had instituted "swimming cars" as a new service for students.

The highlights of the following day were the football game and a tea dance which followed. The game itself was not unusual as the powers of fate, Lady Luck, and what have you, snatched yet another game from the Redmen, in a not exactly unrecognizable pattern. This game, though the excuse for making the trip in the first place, was quickly shifted out of conscious memory, and more important matters began to occupy the interest of the McGill contingent.

The "tea-dance" which followed provided neither tea nor real dancing, but did afford one a chance to perspire off a few pounds while meeting some of those poor unfortunates who reside in the Queen City.

Saturday night's activity usually extended well into Sunday morning and, accordingly, nothing more need be said about it. The ride home Sunday afternoon and evening was somewhat unusual in many respects.

Strange as it may seem, and contrary to popular expectations, no men appeared at the Ontario-Quebec border in the guise of members of the Quebec Customs and Immigration Board to check for Margarine, uncensored film reels or the like. Also, unlike last year, no cars were derailed. As a matter of fact, it was downright quiet, and with the expectation of one or two intervals of singing, bunny-hopping, and tuba playing, one could almost hear oneself when speaking.

Probably the funniest sights on the train were a number of girls who sat there looking at school books, or other reading matter, as if they were really concentrating and were really deriving meaning from the pages in front of them. I would only suggest, that if the amount of material learned on this excursion represents the sum total of what they know about the subject studied, it should be quite something to see the examination papers turned in by these enthusiasts.

First Place And Cellar At Stake This Saturday

One weekend's play still remains on the intercollegiate grid scene, and Larry Sullivan's Redmen will get their chance to save some face when on Saturday afternoon, they meet the Western Mustangs, apparently no longer possessing any 'must'. A McGill win would move our boys out of the cellar position they are presently sharing with Johnny Metras' Kingston outfit.

The Toronto-Queen's encounter will be important in that if the Gaels emerge victorious, they will be tied with Varsity for the top step of the intercollegiate football ladder. This would possibly enable them to secure their home grounds in London as the site for the playoff game which will decide the winner of the treasured Yates Trophy.

Unofficial scoring statistics released this morning showed Ron Stewart in his usual place at the top of the heap. Individual statistics are as follows:

|                     | Td | C | S | Fg | St | Pts |

Remedy Needed For 'Old Rock Pile'

One of the first things a new student looks for at any University is the Students Union. Any new student at McGill must be surprised and shocked when they discover the Union here.

I was sure that I had the wrong place when I walked into the Union for the first time. I had to be assured by an older student that the building I was in was actually the Student Union Building. After a month at McGill, I am finally used to the idea that the antiquated mouldering old rock pile on Sherbrooke St. is the hub of student activities.

Further investigation brought out the following facts. The Union was built in 1908 for the purpose of furnishing a center of activity for some 900 male students. Since that time, no major changes have been made. With the present enrollment over 7,000 and an estimated 10,000 by 1965 it is plain to see that conditions are terrible now and certainly will not improve until a major change is made.

Inhospitable

What should be in any other University the center of student activity is a warm out, inhospitable and depressing old relic at McGill. The dismal atmosphere is so genuinely unattractive, that students stay away from it and as a consequence, the impetus to carry on activities is stifled. The lack of sufficient space and facilities cannot help but drastically limit the number of students who take part in campus activities.

Without going any further into the ills of the present Union it must be said that this is no new problem at McGill. In 1954 the New Union House Committee thought that they had finally won the battle for a new Union when the project was given top priority on the new building project. In 1955 nothing was done and the New Union had to lose priority to make way for more urgent academic needs. At the present time, there is very little hope that the situation will improve during the foreseeable future.

Many various proposals and possible solutions to the problem have been offered. Some of these will be discussed in future articles but we all realize that talk alone will not remedy the situation. In the

Newman Club to Hold Formal Affair on Nov. 16

"Shall We Dance" is the name of this year's city-wide ball presented by the Newman Club on Nov. 16. Tickets can be obtained at the special McGill student price of $10 a couple. For this fee, a chic woman and a well-dressed man can enjoy an evening of dancing, preceded by a dinner, all at the Mount Royal Hotel Ballroom. Jose da Costa will supply the background and dance music for couples attending this formal ball.

Free Tickets

Two lucky people will be given free tickets to the "Newman Ball" if they happen to be standing on the right spot at 1:05 p.m. on either Tuesday or Friday. A convertible will be touring the campus roads for this specific reason on both these days.

near future, it will be necessary for the students to take an active part in a program to bring our Union up to the standards shown at other Universities in North America. Unless some means is found whereby the building of a new Union can be accomplished without the use of University funds, we are stuck with what we have.
